1911, mentioned the approaching trial of Henri Rochette. He said that one of the lawyers desired the postponement of the proceedings. Caillaux added that, owing to the financial situation, the pleadings likely to be made at the trial would cause losses to the savings banks and would affect public loans. No political interest was mentioned.

Effect on Public Opinion.
"Victor Fabre, Public Prosecutor, called upon me four or five times during the separation by a circumstantial question whether, on account of the financial publication, the trial could be deferred.

"M. Fabre replied that to send the Rochette affair back to the investigating judge would not affect the trial itself, but would be evilly interpreted by public opinion. I remarked that that was a question for the presiding judge of the court to dispose of.

"No pressure whatever was placed upon M. Fabre. He left me in an amiable mood and stood outside my room talking with my son for 20 minutes, during which he expressed the esteem and admiration he had for me."

VARDON TRIES OUT GUTTY BALL AND RUBBER-CORE

Former Is Superior in Driving, but Must Be Hit Harder in the Mashie Shots.

LONDON, March 20.—Harry Vardon, in practicing for the professional tournament with a gutty ball, is surprised to find that in driving the gutty only beats the rubber core by 20 yards, the difference being almost entirely in the carry.

Through the green he found that where he usually takes a cleft with the rubber core, he gets increased distance by taking the brassie with the gutty. The greatest difference between the two types of ball are in mashie shots in which case the gutty must be hit hard when the same shot with a rubber core is achieved by a mere tick of the wrist. On the other hand, putting is vastly more certain with the gutty.

Vardon found he could hole them from all parts of the green. Even downhill puts have to be punched. In the gutty vs. rubber-core matches which Vardon and Duncan will play Taylor and Braid, April 2, on the Sandy Lodge-links, near London, immense interest is being taken by golfers, and the match is likely to have an important bearing on the movement for the adoption of a standard ball.

COMBINE LEADERS WORK TO FORCE 2 BRIDGE ELECTIONS

McCarthy and Gallagher Try to Hold House in Line for Further Delay.

Democratic leaders in the House of Delegates combine declared Friday they were going to do everything in their power to force two special elections on the people under the initiative provisions of the city charter.

Delegates John R. McCarthy and James J. Gallagher, leaders of the House combine, have been working industriously among the other members of the combine trying to hold them in line for the two elections program. The Citizens' Committee, which conducted the successful campaign for the necessary 21,000 signatures to the initiative petitions, discovered that Gallagher, McCarthy and other members of the Democratic combine were doing everything in their power to induce voters not to sign the petitions.

Republicans Aided Campaign.
Wherever Democratic City Committee-men were under the domination of the House combine they openly fought the initiative campaign in the wards. Several members of the Republican organization tendered their services to the business, civic and improvement associations that were co-operating in the initiative campaign.

Delegates McCarthy, Gallagher, Whalen and Meisner told Post-Dispatch reporters they were going to hold out for two special elections. Delegates Ford, Scully and Monahan said they would not commit themselves before the filing of the initiative with the Municipal Assembly.

The Municipal Assembly has the power, on the filing of the initiative petitions, to call a special election to vote on a bond issue for $2,500,000 to build the Reber approach to the free bridge. The Assembly has also the power to submit the initiative ordinance to a vote of the people.

If the ordinance itself is submitted, two elections will be necessary—one to vote on the ordinance and the other on the bond issue. Each special election would cost about $60,000.

The initiative ordinance definitely fixes the Reber approach as the official city approach. If the ordinance should go to the people for a vote and should be adopted, the Municipal Assembly would be without power to repeal it, alter it or amend it, and would, therefore, be powerless to adopt any other approach. The Citizens' Committee thinks this probably would forever settle the bridge approach question. By the adoption of the Reber approach by a vote of the people the so-called Gerhart approach and the Alton & Mississippi $4,200,000 approach would be effectively eliminated from further consideration.

Delegates Overlook a Feature.
The House of Delegates combine in its eagerness to delay a vote on the bridge bond issue, evidently had overlooked this feature of initiative law. It is declared by leaders of the initiative movement that even if the bond issue for the Reber approach should fail, after the ordinance had been adopted by a vote of the people, no bond issue could be authorized to build any other than the Reber approach.

Delegate Gallagher said the people wanted to try to complete the bridge through the initiative process and that the Democratic members were going to endeavor to make it necessary to hold two elections.

"They wanted the initiative," he said, "and we are going to give it to them."

ROBERT LANSING MADE COUNSELOR OF THE STATE DEPT.

President Names New York Lawyer to Succeed John Bassett Moore.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—President Wilson today nominated Robert Lansing of Watertown, N. Y., to be Counselor for the Department of State, succeeding John Bassett Moore, and C. Cone Johnson of Texas to be Solicitor for the State Department, succeeding Joseph W. Folk.

Mr. Lansing is an associate editor of the American Journal of International Law and the author of several works on international subjects. He will succeed John Bassett Moore. He is 50 years old, was associate counsel for the United States in the Behring Sea arbitration in 1892-93; counsel for the United States in the Alaska boundary in 1898, and counsel in the arbitration at The Hague in 1909 of the North Atlantic Coast fisheries case.

Johnson Called Brilliant Lawyer.
Mr. Johnson, who will succeed Joseph W. Folk as solicitor, is about 45 years old and, according to the statement issued from the White House today, "is one of the most brilliant lawyers in Texas."

He was a candidate for the United States Senate once but retired from the contest on account of ill health. The White House described him as "one of the leading factors in progressive democracy in Texas."

With the naming of a new counselor and a new solicitor, all the vacancies in the State Department will have been filled, a new third Assistant Secretary of State, William Phillips, having recently been nominated.

Lansing a Friend of Moore.
Mr. Lansing is a son-in-law of former Secretary John W. Foster of the State Department, a warm personal friend of long standing of John Bassett Moore, whom he succeeds, and now is the agent for the United States on the British-American Pecuniary Claims Commission now in session here.

Secretary Bryan said he knew both men personally and considered them eminently fitted for their positions. Both are Democrats. Mr. Johnson was a Wilson delegate to the Baltimore convention. Mr. Lansing has not been active in politics.

DIVORCE REVOKED, WOMAN NOW HAS TWO HUSBANDS

Remarried After She Cast Off First Husband, Who Then Asks It to Be Set Aside.

Through the setting aside of the divorce decree granted at Clayton in 1912 to Mrs. Myrtle Beatley, the woman, who since has married J. E. Schertz, a Grand avenue restaurant proprietor, and who lives at Hotel Beers, finds she has two husbands. The first is Lew S. Beatley, a tobacco salesman, who got the decree set aside. Schertz, whose marriage appeared to be perfectly legal when performed, is the other.

Judge Wurdeman's reason for setting aside the decree was that he believed Mrs. Beatley was not frank with him in her testimony. The chief point raised by Beatley was that she made affidavit he was a nonresident of the State when, he says, he was in St. Louis all the time.

OFFICIAL AT DESK IN FULL EVENING DRESS

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Byron R. Newton, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, appeared at his office in the morning in full evening dress. All the clerks in his division looked up in amazement.

"No, I haven't been out all night," Newton explained hastily. "Fact is, I did not have anything else to wear."

"I've been going to a lot of dinners lately, and I live rather far out. I've been sending for my evening clothes and changing my suit in the office. One of the men here has been taking the business suits to the presser. Then I've been wearing the evening clothes home, and another suit down in the morning."

"To tell the truth, I haven't got a lot of suits, and what I have are all collected at the presser."

On the way to the office Newton wore an overcoat. He sent after one of the suits at the presser's at the first opportunity.

IF YOUR CHILD NEEDS A LAXATIVE GIVE IT DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS."

Every mother realizes that this is the children's ideal laxative and physic, because they love its pleasant taste and it never fails to effect a thorough "inside cleansing" without griping.

When your child is cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system and you have a well, playful child again. When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember a good liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on each bottle.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." Beware of counterfeiters' sold here. Get the genuine, made by California Fig "Syrup Company." Refuse any other for syrup with contempt.—ADV.

McKELVEY TO SAW DOWN MENACING

He Prepares to Use Cables to Cut Front of Shell Into Two Parts.

THEN WILL PULL THEM

Dynamite Twice Fails to Dislodge Bricks, Though It Breaks 40 Windows.

Building Commissioner McKelvey, at noon Friday, had completed preparations to use steel cables in an effort to saw down the menacing Washington building front wall of the M. A. C. Building, after two attempts to cut it down with dynamite had failed.

A steel cable was thrown over the wall in the center of the gap caused when a portion of the wall was pulled down with ropes Wednesday.

On the end of the cable which hung over the Washington avenue side a heavy weight, made up of timbers and stones, was tied. The other end of the cable was tied to a train of United Railways work cars which stood on Fourth street near Lucas avenue.

To Divide Wall Into Two Parts. McKelvey said he believed that by running the cable forward and then backward the cable with the weight suspended from it could be made to act as a saw and gradually cut downward through the wall, dividing it into two parts.

After this was done, he said, he believed it would be easy to pull down the two sections with cables attached to trolley cars.

Two ineffectual attempts early Friday to wreck the wall served only to further weaken the wall and to break 40 windows on the upper floors of the Shapleigh Hardware Co.'s building across the street.

The first charge of dynamite was set off about 1 a. m. It consisted of 17 half-sticks of the explosive which had been placed in holes drilled in the wall at the third-floor level at intervals of about two and one-half feet.

Each piece of dynamite was fitted with a fuze which was connected to an electric battery wire. The wires were carried to a switch near Broadway and Lucas avenue. When this switch was closed the dynamite exploded.

Cars Pull 20 Steel Cables. To make sure that the wall would fall inward into the ruins when the explosion occurred, 20 steel cables leading from the wall were attached to two United Railways work cars headed north on Fourth street.

The cars were started at the instant the electric switch was thrown. The dynamite exploded. The cables snapped. Showers of glass from the broken Shapleigh windows fell into Fourth street, but the wall still stood.

Guided by search lights, volunteer workmen again climbed the wall and set a second charge of 14 half-sticks of dynamite. These were set off at 2:30 a. m. Again the wall failed to yield.

John Ryan, the expert in charge of the dynamiting, said the purpose of using the explosive was not to blow down the wall, but to weaken it so that it might easily be pulled down. This, he said, had been accomplished.

After the second explosion work on the wall was abandoned for the night and it was said nothing more would be done until Building Commissioner McKelvey arrived at the ruins.

Lois Voller, the sleepwalker, who has had charge of adjusting the cables since 9 a. m. that if other attempts to pull down the wall should fail he would try a secret process of his own at noon. This involves a special arrangement of cables through which, Voller said, the wall might be pulled down by 14 men.

C. A. Hanna, timekeeper for the Wimmer Construction Co., went to the morgue Friday and said he believed the seventh and last body taken from the ruins of the St. Louis Seed Co. store, which collapsed when the west wall of the M. A. C. fell on it Tuesday, was that of a carpenter's helper, who was on the company's payroll as O. Ball.

He was not certain as to this identification and did not know Ball's address.

Part of a Man's Leg Is Found in Debris. Workmen removing a pile of debris which had been thrown into Fourth street from the M. A. C. ruins found part of a man's leg at 11:30 a. m. It was believed to be a portion of the body of one of those known to have lost his life in the fire, the remainder of the body having already been recovered.

Had Serious Lung Trouble—Now Well

Sufferers from Lung Trouble are often misled in the belief that nothing will save them. Rest, fresh air, wholesome food and regularity in habits do much to aid in restoring health, but something else is needed. Many people who have taken Eckman's Alternative have testified that it was this medicine which restored them to health. Read this—

"Gentlemen: Through your instrumentality I have been restored to health. I was taken with a severe attack of pneumonia which developed into lung trouble. In February, 1913, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to St. Louis, Mo. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that my condition was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 115 pounds. The doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive, I was about to give up. I was taking Eckman's Alternative when I was told that it was a good medicine for lung trouble. I bought a bottle and took it. I am now well and can do any kind of work about my home."

Eckman's Alternative is the most effective medicine for lung trouble, pneumonia, tuberculosis, bronchitis, asthma, whooping cough, croup, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, mumps, and all other diseases of the throat and lungs. It is a safe, reliable, and effective remedy for all these diseases. It is sold in all drug stores and by mail. EX-OFFICIAL WHO REPAYS EAST ST. LOUIS $20,000

E. FRED GEROLD.

Gerold, on Trial, Refunds $20,461 to East St. Louis

cruling for the first six months after the expiration of the bonds, according to O. H. Ambrose, the expert accountant, was $18,875.

Ambrose testified that Gerold had taken credit aggregating $30,350 for redeeming interest coupons attached to the bonds issued for the sewer outlet improvement, whereas the amount due and able was $23,450, showing an excess of $6,900. This sum, Ambrose testified, was not covered by voucher or records of any kind in Gerold's office. Ambrose further testified that when the bonds were printed, interest coupons in excess of the number required were attached, and that some of these had doubtfully been circulated.

Says Holten Paid Coupons. After it had been shown by the records, supplemented by the testimony of Ambrose, that the total amount of coupons for that period had been paid by Frank Holten, who was Gerold's predecessor as Treasurer, it was shown that Gerold had taken credit for $20,461 in excess of the amount that accrued after he came into office.

Testimony was offered to show that Gerold received credit for excess overdue interest on street improvements as well as on accounts interest coupons. Ambrose testified that Gerold was credited with $23,450 excess overdue interest on four street improvements, as follows: Thirty-third street, State street to Summit avenue, an excess of $10,000; Broadway to Bond avenue, $10,000; Market avenue, Seventeenth street to Twenty-first street, $100; Illinois avenue, State street to Thirtieth street, $13,450.

On the Thirty-third street improvement, the total credit was $7,350, whereas the correct amount due, according to Ambrose, was $14,350. On the Tenth street improvement credit was taken for interest for one year, 11 months and 21 days, $23,450, whereas interest was due for only 11 months and 21 days, $10,235, according to Ambrose. On the Market avenue improvement the interest on $200 bonds, due Dec. 15, 1912, was $3,350 for 25 days, whereas, according to Ambrose, credit was taken for $10,000. On the Illinois avenue improvement there was no interest due, Ambrose said, and the only document he found applicable to the interest credit was an unofficial coupon voucher memorandum.

C. E. Tietje Testifies. C. E. Tietje, chairman of the claims committee of the City Council during 1912, when most of the credit for alleged duplicate payments of interest coupons were taken by Gerold, testified there were eight members of the claims committee. No claims were approved, to his knowledge, except at meetings of the committee. The method was to have the other members to examine a claim after which Tietje would examine it, and if the committee approved it he would affix his rubber stamp signature.

Tietje did not remember who supplied him with the stamp, but thought it was the Comptroller.

"Did you authorize Comptroller Rodenberg to use your stamp?" asked Assistant State Attorney Thomas Webb.

"No. He never had my stamp."

"You don't know how many stamps he had, do you?"

"No sir."

Tietje was shown several vouchers bearing his rubber stamp signature at the time of approval. Tietje said he supposed he had placed the stamp signature on them, but he had no recollection of any of them.

He explained that he carried his stamp in his pocket or kept it at his store. When he used it at the city hall he inked it on a pad in the Comptroller's office or the Treasurer's office.

When a claim had the O. K. of the head of a department and the Comptroller, Tietje said, the committee supposed it was all right and approved it. The committee did not consult the Comptroller's bond and coupon register to ascertain whether bonds and coupons for which credit was claimed by Gerold had been previously paid.

On cross-examination Tietje said he had no knowledge of any one else having a rubber stamp bearing his name.

DEPUTY TESTIFIES M. A. C. VIOLATED BUILDING ORDERS

Shows Records of Office Proving Complaint Was Made to Club and Ignored.

BANK ALSO NOTIFIED

Club Officials Haled to Court, but Case Was Dismissed and Alterations Remained.

Edward J. Giesler of 4399 Gibson avenue Deputy Building Commissioner for the last three years, testifying before Coroner Padberg at Friday's M. A. C. fire investigation, read letters from the files in his office showing that the Building Inspector had complained that alterations in the M. A. C. building in 1913 were not being carried out in accordance with approved plans.

Giesler showed a record of a permit issued April 3, 1913, for the construction of 47 rooms on the fifth and sixth floors. This permit, it was shown, was issued to the Missouri Amusement and Club Supply Co., which was incorporated Feb. 27, 1903. On April 13, 1903, the records showed, Inspector Cochran reported to his office that 97 rooms were being built on the fifth and sixth floors, instead of 47.

On April 17, 1903, letters were written to James H. Bright, contractor, and William H. Thomson of the Boatmen's Bank to the effect that the alterations were not being made as directed by the plans, according to records introduced by Giesler.

Later, he said, a letter was sent to Chief of Police Kiley, informing him that the permit for the alterations had been revoked. The records showed that on April 22 the Missouri Amusement and Club Supply Co. was asked to bring its incorporation papers and the contract for the alterations before the Dayton Street Police Court. This case, it was brought out, was dismissed and the alterations in the M. A. C. building were allowed to stand.

Giesler testified that inspection of the building was made as late as Dec. 22, 1913, resulting in reports approving the construction of the building.

Contractor Says He Got an O.K. James H. Bright of 4034 West Belle place, the contractor who supervised the alterations, testified the only complaint from the Building Commissioner's office was over the construction of the windows. He said the alterations made in this respect were approved.

John T. Heister of 5880 E. 12th avenue, former Deputy Building Commissioner, testified that in 1910 a permit was issued to the M. A. C. for construction of additional rooms on the fourth floor and that a report approving the work had been received.

J. A. Smith, formerly Building Commissioner, residing at 1413 Euclid avenue, testified that under his order fire escapes were erected on the M. A. C. Fourth street wall and at the southeast corner of the building on Washington avenue. He was not sure whether the enclosed escape had been put up at the same time. He testified he considered the building safe after the fire escapes had been put up.

Swingley Tells of Inspection. Chief Swingley told of the activities of the fire department during the fire and declared he had no idea as to the origin of the flames. When he reached the scene, he said, the blaze seemed strongest on the east side of the building. He testified that after he reached the fire no one was rescued from the building, as the heat was so intense a person could not live in it. He said the building was last inspected about 18 months before the fire by his department. He said his office had no authority to enforce changes in construction.

Habbi Harrison to Hold Memorial Services for M. A. C. Dead. Rabbi Leon Harrison will hold a memorial service for the M. A. C. dead at Temple Israel, King's highway and at Temple boulevard, at 10:30 a. m. Sunday. His subject will be "The Memory of Those Who Have Perished, the Message of the Tragedy and its Warning to Us and to the City."

HEIR TO ESTATE IN NEW YORK CITY IS SOUGHT HERE

Lawyer Hunts Mrs. Mary Baldwin or Her Daughter, Dorothy, Who Lived Here in 1901.

Harold Swain, attorney for the Title Guaranty and Trust Co. of New York, arrived in St. Louis Thursday and renewed search, begun months ago, for Miss Dorothy Baldwin, 22 years old and her mother, Mrs. Mary Baldwin, widow of Arthur Baldwin, who died in St. Louis in 1897.

Swain said Mrs. Baldwin was the daughter of Angelina Talmage Arthur, who was the wife of Frederick Arthur, then living in Carondelet. B. L. Arthur, a brother of Mrs. Baldwin, left St. Louis in 1890 for California and has not been heard from since. Another brother, Frederick Arthur Jr., died in St. Louis in 1897.

White living at 4399 Odell avenue, Arthur Baldwin died, and Mrs. Baldwin, who was then falling in health, had Mrs. Lucy Loker, now living at 423 Morgan street, take care of Dorothy Baldwin. Mrs. Loker told Swain the girl and her mother disappeared in 1901, but that old acquaintances of the family had seen both the girl and her mother in St. Louis since then.

Swain is registered at the Hotel Jefferson.

A Million Dollar Discovery

For half a century Doctors and Druggists have said: "The man that can take the gripe and nausea out of PoDoPhyllin or May-Apple Root will make a million dollars."

PoDoLax is a May-Apple Root formula. May-Apple grows wild and our ancestors discovered that the root would release the Bile that had become clogged or dammed up in the Liver.

Encyclopaedia Britannica says: "PoDoPhyllin—a popular remedy much used by those averse to calomel and mercurial preparations. Is sometimes called 'Vegetable Mercury.' Is from May-Apple Root."

There is a limit to the edition at our disposal. When it is gone you cannot secure this beautiful volume for THREE TIMES the small expense amount now necessary.

Just think of it, these songs are costing you less than one-fifth of a cent each, or five for a nickel.

Each song is set to MUSIC in a low key, in large, beautiful type, so that both MUSIC and WORDS can be read at a distance without difficulty. Each one of these songs, if purchased in SHEET-MUSIC form, would cost at least 10 cents, and there are several hundred of them.

How You Can Get It. Just present at any distribution point named below One Post-Dispatch Coupon And receive your choice of these books.

79c for the heavy English cloth style, 69 portraits. 49c for same contents bound in art paper, without portraits.

We strongly recommend the cloth-bound book because of its durability and the costly selection of 69 portraits not printed in the paper-covered volume.

GRANDMOTHER USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HER HAIR WHEN FADED OR GRAY

Sage Tea, when Mixed with Sulphur, makes Your Hair Soft, Beautiful and Removes Dandruff at Once.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmothers' time. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But the brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, which is usually

DR. BOOGER TELLS IN SUIT OF OUSTING BY GLEN ECHO CLUB

Physician Says He Was Posted for Dues While Holding a Perpetual Membership Card.

Testimony was taken Friday in Judge Wurdeman's court in Clayton in the suit of Dr. J. Leland Boogher, 429 Laclede avenue, asking for a permanent injunction against the Glen Echo Country Club to restrain the club from posting Dr. Boogher for nonpayment of dues and assessments. On Sept. 6, 1912, Judge Wurdeman granted a temporary injunction against the club.

Dr. Boogher, the first witness, testified that he and his wife played golf at Glen Echo in May, 1913, after which they went into the club dining room and ordered dinner. He said he was told that he had been posted for nonpayment of assessments and for that reason could not be served. Dr. Boogher contends that he was exempt from payment of dues and assessments. He testified that after joining the club in 1902, being one of the charter members, he and 34 other mem-

FIREMAN'S DAUGHTER WHO PUT ROBBER TO FLIGHT

MISS GENEVIEVE O'BRIEN.

GIRL USES NAIL FILE AS PISTOL; ROUTS INTRUDER

Man Enters Home by Ruse and Demands to Know Hiding Place of Her Father's Money.

Miss Genevieve O'Brien, 21 years old, daughter of Michael O'Brien, a city fireman, of 3922 Cote Brillante avenue, Thursday afternoon used a nail file as an imitation revolver in routing a handsome, well-dressed young man intruder.

Miss O'Brien said she was alone in the house playing the piano when the young man rang the doorbell. He first asked whether she had any secondhand sheet music to sell, and then, pushing his way into the front hall, he demanded that she tell him where her father hid his money.

Miss O'Brien ran into the kitchen and picked up the nail file from a table and at the same time called to her pet dog, Queenie. She then went into the hall, she said, and holding the handle of the nail file toward the young man, exclaimed: "If you don't get out I'll shoot." He fled.

MAX: When she says "Yes," hurry over to Lottis Bros., 2 Co. 26 floor, 808 N. 6th st., and buy a diamond on credit.

Steinberg's
Oliver at Tenth

Is Recognized as Headquarters for

Fashionable Miss St. Louis

THERE is a charm and individuality in Steinberg's apparel for misses and juniors that distinguishes it from the commonplace. The styles are youthful, having been expressly designed for the growing miss, and it is this distinctive feature that has won instant recognition for the new department and has made it the most popular in St. Louis for those who desire the highest standards of quality, style and workmanship.

Steinberg's Control Exclusively for St. Louis
"The Country Club" Suit
for Misses and Juniors

THE prevailing suit modes of the present, which are greatly favored by the fashionable miss and young woman, are not adapted to out-of-door sport, which accounts for the creation of the Country Club Suit. It is just the garment for golf, tennis or travel; made in smart checks, tans, blues and greens; sizes 14, 16 and 18. Prices, $32.50, $35.00 and $39.50.

Many new models in Misses' and Juniors' Suits have recently arrived—they are adaptations of the advanced foreign models and express the newest style ideas.

Misses' and Juniors' Suits at $25.00

STEINBERG'S Suits at $25.00 are exceptional values. The qualities of the material, the styles and the tailoring measure up to the high standard established by Steinberg's. They come in a wide range of the cleverest modes—from the plain Norfolk coat and gored skirt to the more dressy short coat and trimmed skirt, and there is a wonderful assortment of splendid materials—pretty checks and plain colors, in all the wanted shades—sizes 13, 15 and 17 for juniors, and 14, 16 and 18 for misses. Price, $25.00.

Misses' and Juniors' Suits at $29.50

MOST attractive styles and unusual qualities in Misses' and Juniors' Suits are offered at $29.50. Saturday, a number of new models will receive their first showing, made up of the most-favored materials, in the prevailing shades—the Eton or short coats, with straight lines and the skirts in tier effects or tunics are the dominating style ideas—collars and cuffs trimmed with self or contrasting colors—Roman or moire trimmings. All sizes for misses and juniors. Price, $29.50.

Misses' Suits at $35.00 and $39.50

WE announce the arrival of a splendid collection of Suits, with clever little coats and skirts in two and three tier or tunic effects of different or self material. The fabrics are serges, silks, moires, poplins, gaberdines and crepes—the colors are reseda, navy, Copenhagen, black and black-and-white checks. In all misses' sizes, $35.00, and $39.50.

bers paid $300 each in addition to the $100 initiation fees to keep the club from failing.

Perpetual Membership Award.
In return for this, he testified he received a certificate of perpetual membership which exempted him from paying dues and assessments.

Arthur Sager, attorney for the club, asked Dr. Boogher if he hadn't paid $35 on July 11, 1905, to the real estate fund of the club and the same amount on April 25, 1911, when the club was in debt.

Dr. Boogher replied that he had paid the sums and other amounts but had regarded them as voluntary contributions and not as assessments. He testified that he had paid $60 towards the digging of a well on the club property.

He was asked if he had received notices of assessments due. Dr. Boogher testified that he didn't know if he had received them, but didn't pay as he felt that he was exempt from paying.

Dr. Boogher Posted Twice.
Dr. Boogher testified that he had been posted for nonpayment of a $15 assessment in 1907 and for nonpayment of a $30 assessment in 1912. He said he wrote a letter to the Board of Directors of the club, informing them of his perpetual membership, but that this letter was ignored.

Attorney Sager asked Dr. Boogher if he knew that certain features of the club were operated at a distinct loss, especially the restaurant. He replied that he knew this, but said that the service of the diningroom was excellent and the food good and that the patronage was poor.

Dr. Boogher said he had never read the certificate of perpetual membership which he received. It was read to him, and does not say anything about exemption from paying assessments.

MAN WANTED FOR $400
DIAMOND THEFT IS HELD

New York Police Arrest Frederick Kaufman Who Obtained Gems of Jeweler Here.

The police were notified of the capture in New York of Frederick Kaufman, also known as Meyers, who is wanted here for stealing $400 worth of diamonds from Clement J. Kissell, a jeweler at 432 Olive street.

Kaufman, on Feb. 2 last, rented a room at 325 Lindell avenue. On the same day he went to Kissell and told him he wanted to buy a pair of diamond earrings for his wife, who was ill. He said he wanted his wife to select the earrings and the Kissell asked Kissell to accompany him to the Lindell avenue house. Kissell took four diamonds with him. Kaufman said he would show the diamonds to his sick wife. He took the gems, stepped into an adjoining room and never came back.

The telegram from the New York police says there are five similar charges against Kaufman there and he cannot be returned to St. Louis until those charges are disposed of.

CHICAGO, March 20.—"Wow! It's a woman jury; let me go. I know what they will do to a fellow," exclaimed James Beckel, arrested for vagrancy, when he was taken into Municipal Court yesterday for trial.

GRANDMOTHER USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HER HAIR WHEN FADED OR GRAY

Sage Tea, when Mixed with Sulphur, makes Your Hair Soft, Beautiful and Removes Dandruff at Once.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But the brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, which is usually Physician Says He Was Posted for Dues While Holding a Perpetual Membership Card.

Testimony was taken Friday in Judge Wurdeman's court in Clayton in the suit of Dr. J. Leland Boogher, 423 Laclede avenue, asking for a permanent injunction against the Glen Echo Country Club to restrain the club from posting Dr. Boogher for nonpayment of dues and assessments. On Sept. 6, 1913, Judge Wurdeman granted a temporary injunction against the club.

DR. BOOGHER TELLS IN SUIT OF OUSTING BY GLEN ECHO CLUB

Physician Says He Was Posted for Dues While Holding a Perpetual Membership Card.

A well-known downtown druggist says his customers insist on Weyth's Sage and Sulphur, because, they say, it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.—ADV.

bers paid $500 each in addition to the $100 initiation fees to keep the club from falling.

Perpetual Membership Award.
In return for this, he testified, he received a certificate of perpetual membership which exempted him from paying dues and assessments.

Arthur Sager, attorney for the club, asked Dr. Boogher if he hadn't paid $25 on July 11, 1906, to the real estate fund of the club and the same amount on April 25, 1911, when the club was in debt. Dr. Boogher replied that he had paid the sums and other amounts but had regarded them as voluntary contributions and not as assessments. He testified that he had paid $20 towards the digging of a well on the club property.

He was asked if he had received notices of assessments due. Dr. Boogher testified that he didn't know if he had received them, but didn't pay as he felt that he was exempt from paying.

Dr. Boogher Posted Twice.
Dr. Boogher testified that he had been posted for nonpayment of a $75 assessment in 1907 and for nonpayment of a $30 assessment in 1912. He said he wrote a letter to the Board of Directors of the club, informing them of his perpetual membership, but that this letter was ignored.

Attorney Sager asked Dr. Boogher if he knew that certain features of the club were operated at a distinct loss, especially the restaurant. He replied that he knew this, but said that the service of the diningroom was excellent and the food good and that the patronage was poor.

Dr. Boogher said he had never read the certificate of perpetual membership which he received. It was read to him, and does not say anything about exemption from paying assessments.

MAN WANTED FOR $400 DIAMOND THEFT IS HELD

New York Police Arrest Frederick Kaufman Who Obtained Gems of Jeweler Here.

The police Friday were notified of the capture in New York of Frederick Kaufman, also known as Meyers, who is wanted here for stealing $400 worth of diamonds from Clement J. Kissell, a jeweler at 422 Olive street.

Kaufman, Feb. 3 last, rented a room at 3235 Lindell avenue. On the same day he went to Kissell and told him he wanted to buy a pair of diamond earrings for his wife, who was ill. He said he wanted his wife to select the settings for the earrings and asked Kissell to accompany him to the Lindell avenue house. Kissell took four diamonds with him. Kaufman said he would show the diamonds to his sick wife. He took the gems, stepped into an adjoining room and never came back.

The telegram from the New York police says there are five similar charges against Kaufman there and he cannot be returned to St. Louis until those charges are disposed of.

FEARS A WOMAN JURY

CHICAGO, March 20.—"Wow! It's a woman jury! let me go. I know what they will do to a fellow," exclaimed James Beckel, arrested for vagrancy, when he was taken into Municipal Court yesterday for trial.

Nine women occupied seats in the jury box. Beckel refused to let his trial go on until he was informed the nine women were police women, who were learning court procedure first hand, and not jury women.

GIRL USES NAIL FILE AS PISTOL; ROUTS INTRUDER

Man Enters Home by Ruse and Demands to Know Hiding Place of Her Father's Money.

Miss Genevieve O'Brien, 21 years old, daughter of Michael O'Brien, a city fireman, of 5922 Cote Brillante avenue, Thursday afternoon used a nail file as an imitation revolver in routing a handsome, well-dressed young man intruder.

Miss O'Brien said she was alone in the house playing the piano when the young man rang the doorbell. He first asked whether she had any secondhand sheet music to sell, and then, pushing his way into the front hall, he demanded that she tell him where her father hid his money.

Miss O'Brien ran into the kitchen and picked up the nail file from a table and at the same time called to her pet dog, Queenie. She then went into the hall, she said, and holding the handle of the nail file toward the young man, exclaimed: "If you don't get out I'll shoot." He fled.

NOISY WELCOME FOR CARSON AS HE ENTERS BELFAST

Government Strengthens Guard

an Outbreak.

BELFAST, March 20.—Sir Edward Carson, leader of the Unionists of Ulster, made a dramatic entry into the capital of the province today. His purpose in coming here is to consult with the other Ulster Unionist leaders and with the commanders of the Ulster volunteer forces.

As the party came down the gangway to the pier they found a guard of honor an emergency force of picked men of the Ulster volunteers. A big crowd gave them a noisy welcome, cheering wildly and firing their revolvers into the air.

SERIOUS CATARRH YIELDS TO HYOMEL

Be wise in time and use Hyomel at the first symptom of catarrh, such as frequent colds, spasmodic coughing, watery eyes, husky voice, or constant sniffing and raising of mucus.

Do not let the disease become deep seated and gradually extend along the delicate mucous membrane going from the nose to the throat and finally into the lungs—then you are in danger of a serious if not fatal illness.

There is no other treatment for catarrh like the Hyomel method, none just as good or more simple and pleasant to use. It is in no wise a cure-all, but certainly is most effective and almost instant relief for head colds, croup or catarrh. Hyomel contains no dangerous or outworn drugs, and can be safely used in the treatment of small children.

The Hyomel method is not a round-about process of stomach drugging that only upsets the digestion—it's nature's way—you breathe it. Hyomel is a combination of antiseptic and germicidal oils. It mixes with the air you breathe, almost instantly reaches all the nooks and crevices of the inflamed and inflamed mucous membrane lining the nose and throat and immediately begins its sure and safe healing.

All Druggists sell Hyomel. The complete outfit—$1.00 size—contains inhaler and bottle of liquid. Extra bottles of liquid, if needed, 50 cents. —ADV.

CROW CONTINUES PLEA FOR FORFEIT OF BRIDGE CHARTER

He Tells Senate Committee How the Merchants' Company
Violated Grant.

SENATORS SHOW INTEREST

In Colloquy With Terminal Lawyer, Crow Says He Represents People.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The hearing on Senator Reed's resolution to confiscate the Merchants' bridge at St. Louis and turn it over to the people who constructed it opened again at 11:45 today. Senator O'Gorman, a member of the subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee, appointed to consider Senator Reed's resolution, who was not at the meeting yesterday, appeared today and showed keen interest from the start.

That Senator O'Gorman might know the full story of the controversy over the bridge, Senator Reed, chairman, asked ex-Attorney-General E. C. Crow of Missouri, who took the stand, to resume his statement of yesterday, to state briefly what already he had testified.

Crow repeated his story of the Eads Bridge and of the organization of the Merchants' Bridge Co. for the relief of the citizens of St. Louis. He explained the amendment to the act of Congress that gave the Merchants' company authority to construct the bridge across the Mississippi, telling the committee that the railroad had bought up the stock of the bridge company and converted the bridge into part of a great railway system.

St. Louis Long Off the Map.
"St. Louis," said he, "was not on the railway map for years. No through car was billed from the East to St. Louis."

Crow then explained the term "arbitrary."

S Senator O'Gorman asked who had the amendment that enabled the railroad to buy up and take control of the Merchants' Bridge passed through Congress. Crow said that Thomas M. Pierce, representing the Terminal Railroad Association at the hearing, had explained yesterday that "stockholders of the bridge company" had requested the passage of the amendment.

"What, for?" asked Senator O'Gorman.

"So that they could sell their bonds," volunteered Pierce.

Crow dwelt at length on what he termed the pooling of interests among the bridge corporations, which, he said, began in 1893 when the Eads Bridge owners bought the controlling interest in the Merchants' Bridge and in the Wiggins Ferry Co. of St. Louis, to prove that such a combination exists and that freight rates have been arranged at meetings of officials of the various bridge companies. Crow read at length from the printed testimony of Scullin.

Crow declared the existence of the Merchants' Bridge as it is conducted now, is in violation of interstate laws and he said that was the contention of the "complainant."

"People the Complainant."

"Just who is the complainant?" asked Pierce.

"Ninety-five per cent of the people of St. Louis," retorted Crow.

"Whom do you represent?" asked Pierce.

"To be specific, I represent the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the Pulitzer Publishing Co.," said Crow.

Crow and Pierce engaged in a spirited colloquy over the real sentiment of the St. Louis people as to the bridge question. Pierce declared St. Louis voters thrice had rejected at the polls a proposal for a bond issue for the construction of a municipal bridge. Crow retorted that the question of location had had everything to do with the repeated rejections. That ended the flurry.

"The very corporations, the Terminal Railroad, which entered into the unlawful combine, comes before this committee," declared Crow, "with the plea that if its monopoly is broken its bondholders will suffer. That is its defense."

It was developed by members of the committee that the bonds are held almost entirely in England by British insurance companies. It also was brought out that the bonds, marketed in 1888 and running for 40 years at 6 per cent, had paid interest steadily.

Discusses Legal Aspects.

Crow then entered into a long discussion of the legal aspects of the case. He cited many opinions to show that Congress had full power to declare forfeited the charter of the Merchants' Bridge Co. Crow also dwelt on the powers of legislatures to confiscate property and cited a number of instances in which states recovered property for the failure of those to whom it had been deeded to comply with the law governing the grants.

"Do you mean declared forfeiture or enforced forfeiture?" Senator Clark of Wyoming inquired.

"Both," answered Crow. "If the party or corporation involved is disposed to resist service there are ways of reaching him or it. Suppose, for instance, Congress should declare forfeited the charter of the Merchants' Bridge and that corporation should refuse to concede the right of Congress to do so. Congress then could instruct the Secretary of War to enforce its order."

"That, however, would necessitate the matter going to the courts," suggested Senator Clark.

"Yes, I suppose it would," Crow assented.

Crow yesterday declared that there are three grounds for forfeiture, any one of which is sufficient to warrant confiscation.

These grounds are:

- (1) One management for the Merchants' and the St. Louis Bridge Co.
- (2) The pooling of earnings of both.
- (3) A consolidation of interests of the two companies.

In other words, Crow argued, the Merchants' Bridge Co., having violated the provisions of the act of Congress by agreeing to the consolidation with the St. Louis Bridge Co., has forfeited its charter.

Crow said: "The Merchants' Bridge Co. has violated the terms and conditions of the act of Congress by agreeing and consenting to the consolidation with the St. Louis Bridge Co.; by consenting to the pooling of the earnings of the same company, and by putting its bridge and the St. Louis bridge under the same management."

Violated Other Provisions.

"The Merchants' Bridge Co. has violated other provisions of the act that gave it authority to build a bridge across the Mississippi. It has been adjudged by the Supreme Court of the United States to have been guilty of various acts of violation."

"Therefore, all the rights, privileges and franchises granted the Merchants' Bridge Co. by Congress should be declared forfeited and annulled; the bridge over the Mississippi should be turned over to the United States and the Secretary of War should be authorized to take possession of the bridge and operate it forever as a public bridge."

The first witness to appear before the subcommittee of the Senate was Arthur B. Barrett, who said he came to Washington at his own expense as a private citizen, to speak in favor of the Reed bill.

"It is my zeal rather than any special ability that brings me here to speak to you," said he. "The people of St. Louis have spent $3,500,000 in an effort to compete with the Terminal Railroad Association and stand ready to spend that much more to complete the municipal free bridge."

"The City Assembly adopted a resolution directing our Mayor to send a communication to Senator Reed urging favorable action on his resolution as to the best solution of our difficulties," said Mr. Barrett. "Numerous civic organizations also adopted similar resolutions and have petitioned Congress to pass the resolution."

"We ask you to take over this bridge. We will need it as well as the free bridge when that is completed, which will be at least two years hence. In the charter authorizing the construction of the Merchants' Bridge, Congress reserved the right to enforce the law. We ask you to do it."

HALIFAX, N. S., March 20.—The merciless pounding of on-shore seas broke the stranded steamship City of Sydney in two today and her bow slipped off into deep water and sank. The ship went ashore on the Sambro ledges on Tuesday. Her passengers and crew were rescued.

Woman and Baby Die in Fire.
RINGLING, Ok., March 20.—Mrs. A. M. Dulaney and her 3-year-old baby were burned to death here yesterday in a fire that destroyed their home. The woman's husband carried four children and his wife from the house but efforts to reach the baby failed. Mrs. Dulaney was so badly burned she died soon afterwards.

BUSINESS WORLD NEEDS SENTIMENT, DR. ABBOTT SAYS

Men Should Remove Hats in Elevators, Give Seats to Women in Cars, He Says.

The Rev. Dr. B. A. Abbott, pastor of the Union Avenue Christian Church, speaking before the Credit Men's Association at the City Club Thursday night, declared more sentiment was needed in the business world. Explaining this remark to a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday, Dr. Abbott said he hoped to see the time when all men would give their seats to women in street cars, and would remove their hats when women entered elevators.

"When we neglect those fine touches of human nature that are expressed in sentiment," he said, "we destroy the essence of our lives and take a step backward toward the cave."

Some of Dr. Abbott's epigrams, in his talk to the credit men, were: "You will never have an honest horserace, until you have an honest human race."

"We hope to dissipate the old prejudice that the preacher is invisible six days of the week and incommunicable on the seventh."

"Someone has defined a pessimist as a person who Fletcherizes his quinine pills, while the optimist is one who eats his doughnut and throws the hole away."

"The credit system is based on faith in human nature."

After telling of his boyhood experiences as a collector of wages due him for farm work in Virginia, the minister said: "But I have always believed in men and women, and have kept optimistic. The pessimist has too hard a time of it. Life is too gray and sordid to him; it keeps such a brown taste in the mouth."

Association of Optimists.

"Such an association as this is a kind of organized optimism in the business world."

R. L. Gurney of the Commonwealth Trust Co. spoke on "Fighting Forgers With Finger Prints," and gave interesting facts and figures about the fingerprint method of identification.

The credit men passed a resolution urging that the offices of State and city fire marshals be created, to attend to preventive and safety measures in regard to buildings of all kinds.

HIRED BY CONTRACTOR TO FIGHT PRISON BILL

Ex-Treasurer of Charities and Corrections Tells of Lobbying Against Hughes Measure.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Edward Boyle of Chicago, for three years treasurer of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections, told the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee today that he had been employed by the Parham Knitting Co. of Wisconsin and Illinois, representing various contractors, to oppose national legislation to regulate shipments of prison products.

Boyle testified that no specific fund had been raised by prison labor contractors, but that he had been paid under an agreement by which various contractors contributed. He said he had no knowledge of what this agreement was, and that he had received no retainer.

The committee is investigating a charge that a $30,000 fund had been raised to defeat the Hughes measure.

STOMACH SOUR, HEADACHY, BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED? TAKE CASCARETS.

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; the pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means your stomach is sour—your liver is torpid—your bowels constipated. It isn't your stomach's fault—it isn't indigestion—it's biliousness and constipation. Try Cascarets; they sweeten the stomach, remove the sour, fermenting food and foul gases; take bile from the liver and carry off the waste matter from the system. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning.

MOTHER ATTENDING SICK DAUGHTER WHEN SON IS HURT

East St. Louis Youth Run Over by Car and Fingers Have to Be Amputated.

While Mrs. Clara Penrod sat beside a cot Thursday afternoon in Henrietta Hospital, East St. Louis, where her 18-year-old daughter, Letta, lay seriously ill since an operation for appendicitis a week ago, her 16-year-old son, Clarence, was hurried in a street car to St. Mary's Hospital, where surgeons amputated four fingers of his left hand, crushed by a street car.

The youth, a Postal Telegraph messenger, was on his way to the Vandavia Railroad offices to deliver a message, when he was struck by a car at the east approach of Zada Bridge, at 4:30 p. m. Two cars approaching from opposite directions confused him and he ran across the tracks in front of one, too late to escape the other. The wheels of the car passed over the fingers of his left hand and he also was internally injured.

He was placed in the car that hit him and taken to the sheds at Broadway and Third street. An ambulance was called, but its delay in arriving caused officials of the street car company to send the car to the hospital, seven blocks away.

Mrs. Penrod, who has been keeping vigil at her daughter's side for a week with scarcely any rest, was called away and told of the injury to her son. She reached St. Mary's Hospital just as the amputation was completed. Becoming hysterical, Mrs. Penrod then rushed from one hospital to the other several times, imploring that the news of her son's injury be kept from her daughter. Friends at last compelled her to go to the home of her sister, Mrs. J. R. Cover, 1800 Ohio avenue. Later she was taken by her husband, W. H. Penrod, to their home, 464 North Twenty-second street.

Physicians at St. Mary's Hospital said they might have to amputate all the boy's hand. Miss Penrod's condition was reported to be virtually unchanged. She was not told of the accident to her brother.

COL. ASTOR'S WIDOW LACKS 50 CENT FEE

Confesses She Hasn't That Much in Purse and Doorman Trusts Her.

NEW YORK, March 20.—Mrs. John Jacob Astor, widow of Col. Astor, had to confess her inability to pay an admission fee of 50 cents yesterday to witness the women's lawn tennis championship matches in the Seventh Regiment Armory.

Mrs. Astor came to the armory in her limousine, accompanied by her sister, Miss Katherine E. Force. As she passed in at the door, Sergt. O'Brien, police, requested that she pay the admission fee. For a moment there was embarrassment as Mrs. Astor replied she was without any money. For a moment Sergt. O'Brien was a trifle dazed. Mrs. Astor then promised to send the money to the armory today, and Sergt. O'Brien gallantly passed them in.

Mrs. Astor perched herself upon a table in preference to a chair. From that point of vantage she saw the finish of the match.

RAYMOND BELMONT SUE BY CHORUS GIRL BRIDE

Former Ethel Lorraine Asks Separation From Financier's Son With Whom She Eloped.

NEW YORK, March 20.—After waiting vainly many months for the return of her husband, Raymond Belmont, son of August Belmont, Mrs. Ethel Lorraine Belmont, began her fight in the Supreme Court yesterday afternoon for a separation.

Mrs. Belmont, who was a show girl when she eloped with young Belmont and married him in Jersey City on Nov. 21, 1912, was not in court, but her lawyer, Edmund L. Mooney, told Justice Greenbaum she would be present today and testify. Young Belmont is now in England. He is represented by Attorney Delancey Nicol.

DROWNS HER DAUGHTERS

Connecticut Woman Then Takes Poison, but Will Recover.

GREENWICH, Conn., March 20.—Believing she had consumption and would be a burden to her husband, Mrs. William Anthony, wife of a contractor, yesterday drowned her two small daughters in a bathtub and then swallowed poison.

Mr. Anthony found Marjorie, 3 years old, and Vivian, 2 dead face to face in the water-filled tub. His wife was groaning in the bedroom adjoining. She was removed to a hospital, where it is believed she will recover. A 3-month-old baby was found sleeping in its crib.

Greener Shoots Three In Wounded. WASHINGTON, March 20.—Herman Kabansky, a grocer, shot three persons today and was captured after being wounded in a pistol duel with a policeman. He had shot his wife, mother-in-law and brother-in-law. The wife was seriously wounded. Family troubles caused the shooting.

DAUGHTER SUES TO HAVE WHITNEY ESTATE DIVIDED

$2,500,000 Involved in California Action to Test Validity of Will.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—Mrs. Helen Beryl Graydon Wheeler, daughter of the late Joel Parker Whitney, California millionaire, filed in the Superior Court yesterday a petition for an absolute distribution of her father's estate.

She asked that one-half be given to her mother, Mrs. Lucy A. Whitney, and one-sixth each to her brothers, J. Parker and Vincent Whitney, and to herself. The action will be a test of the validity of the will.

The decedent's interest in the Whitney estate company is put at $247,821 and it is said the gross value of the estate in California is more than $2,500,000. Mrs. Wheeler is now the wife of Joseph Columbus Wheeler Jr., of Fort Thomas, Ky. Her first husband was Robert Graydon, Harvard football star, whom she divorced in 1909. J. Parker Whitney is under indictment charged with violating the Mann act.

"WHERE are you going, my pretty maid?" "To Lotta Bros., 308 N. 4th st., to get a bracelet watch on credit, sir," she said.

LABOR MAN URGES REPEAL OF SOUTHERN TRACTION FRANCHIS

Cites Fact Company's President Was Attorney Before Court That Named Receivers.

OTHERS ADDRESS HOUSE

Gerhart Declares Reber Approach Would Put Railroads at Mercy of Terminal.

J. P. McDonough, representing the Central Trades and Labor Union, speaking at a conference with members of the House of Delegates on free bridge legislation Thursday night, said the Southern Traction loop franchise should be repealed.

He said the repeal would be necessary before the people would vote bonds for the completion of the bridge. He also said President Wilson should be asked to investigate the Southern Traction Co. receivership, and mentioned the fact that William E. Trautmann, president of the company, was Prosecuting Attorney in the United States District Court in which Judge Wright appointed the receivers.

Objects to Receivers' Attitude. He also objected to the attitude of the receivers, who, he said, were shielding themselves behind the Federal Court in denying the city the right of repeal embodied in the franchise ordinance. McDonough advocated the repeal of legislation adopting the Reber approach and the acceptance of the northeast (Gerhart) approach.

Frank H. Gerhart, speaking for the northeast approach, said it could be built for $3,000,000, including consequential damages, but not including the $800,000 which, he said, the east side wagon approach would cost. Representatives of eight organizations that signed approval of the petition filed with the Assembly by the Citizens' Committee of the Business Men's League responded Thursday night to an invitation issued to the 84 organizations listed.

Others Merely Wanted Action. Several speakers said they had signed the petition solely with a view to completing the free bridge and not because they advocated the construction of the Reber approach. Delegates Gallagher, Hoffman and others sought, by questioning the speakers, to make it appear the purpose of the petitions just circulated was not made clear to them by representatives of the Citizens' Committee. Ben Westhus, representing the South Broadway Merchants Association, said his association understood the Reber approach was contemplated by the petition, but they only advocated it because it had the support of newspapers and seemed to be the easiest proposition to complete. He said the members were unable to understand why the Reber approach was suddenly advocated when the Mayor and members of the Assembly were elected last April on pledges not to build this approach. He said they would support any reasonable approach proposed.

F. P. Peterman, representing the Retail Furniture Dealers' Association, said: "Our association went on record for the Reber approach because they didn't understand the merits of the other approaches. Until I came here tonight no one had explained the approaches to me and I did not know that the Reber approach was not the best." Several Oppose Reber Approach. R. T. Dunn of the Chouteau-Lindell Improvement Association; Cornelius H. Fauntleroy of the Mill Creek Valley Improvement Association; C. L. Delbridge and Sheridan Webster of the People's League; Charles Cherry of the East End Property Owners' Association, and A. T. Johnson, a representative of the Northwest Protective Association, said these organizations favored the construction of the Northeast approach and opposed the construction of the Reber approach.

Webster said the People's League had gone on record twice as favoring the submission of a Northeast approach bond issue to the public, and again as favoring the Alton & Mississippi approach in preference to the Reber approach. The Assembly made a choice between only these two. Charles W. Bates, former City Counselor, representing the Alton & Mississippi Belt Railway, described that proposition and said the Reber approach was not accessible to railroads except through the use of Terminal Association facilities, for which the Terminal had a right to charge under the law.

FARMERS OBJECT TO ARISING AT MIDNIGHT

Farmers in the vicinity of Union, Mo., Friday appealed to the Missouri Pacific Utilities Commission, in session at the Platte River Hotel, for redress which would permit them to sleep until 3 a. m., instead of having to get up at midnight.

They want the commission to compel the Rock Island to resume running the "Bell Accommodation" train, which, until Jan. 14 last, left Union for St. Louis at 7:30 a. m. Since the "Bell Accommodation" was discontinued, the farmers have had to get up at midnight and milk their cows to ship their milk on a train leaving Union at 5:15 a. m.

W. L. Cole, attorney representing the Commercial Club of Union, told the committee the "Bell Accommodation" was started by the Rock Island in December, 1912, after the railroad sent a lecturer through that territory on a special train, urging the farmers to take up poultry raising and dairy farming. The "Bell Accommodation" ran from Bell, Mo., to St. Louis, a distance of 100 miles.

VIOLET ASQUITH GETS IN A ROW IN COMMONS' GALLERY

Asks Attendant to Silence Marchioness Who Criticizes Lloyd-George During Speech.

FINALLY LEAVES HER SEAT

Confusion So Great Reporters Thought Suffragettes Had Invaded Select Section.

LONDON, March 20.—Political feeling is running so high in England that even amiable women of different parties are forgotten.

An extraordinary incident happened in the ladies' gallery of the House of Commons during the debate on home rule by Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George.

In the select section of the ladies' gallery that is sacred to the relatives of Ministers and former Ministers, were, among others, the Marchioness of Londonderry and Violet Asquith, daughter of the Prime Minister. The Marchioness indulged in running comments on Lloyd-George's speech, interspersed with somewhat rude references to his appearance and to that of other Ministers.

After a time Miss Asquith asked the Marchioness to be quiet, as her remarks made it impossible to hear properly. But the Marchioness only became the more demonstrative.

Miss Asquith then called the gallery attendant to enforce the silence rule. That functionary shivered in his boots before a Marchioness and the row became so noisy that in the press gallery, immediately underneath, it was thought that the suffragettes had got in.

Finally, Miss Asquith left her place and wrote a complaint to the Speaker. She had only just returned from Parliament, where she went with her brother, and had another unpleasant experience, only the aggressor was the son of an Ulster Peer.

At a dinner in the Sirdar's palace the latter question came up and Miss Asquith remarked that she did not believe in the civil war threats. Thereupon this young man, who is employed in the Egyptian civil service, exclaimed violently:

"I wish I was there. I'd be the first to hang your old father to a gallows." The Sirdar intervened to protect Miss Asquith, but the rest of the company, which was wholly military and official, silently approved the young man's insulting conduct.

LET SUFFRAGETTES DIE OF HUNGER, BRITON SAYS

Another Would Tattoo Their Faces While Still Others Suggest Deportation.

LONDON, March 20.—Mutilation of the Rokeby Venus by militant suffragettes has aroused greater indignation than any previous exploits. Dr. Merder, an eminent surgeon, criticizes the Government for not letting women sent to prison die under a hunger strike, declaring such a policy would be welcomed by the public. It is also suggested that militants convicted of outrages should be branded or tattooed on a prominent part of the face to warn everybody that the person is liable to commit wanton damage to valuable objects.

William Ormsby Gore, M. P., advises Parliament to make a law declaring membership in a militant organization equivalent to the crime of conspiracy against the state, involving liability to penal servitude. Dr. Chapple, a Liberal member of Parliament, thinks "more patience and less publicity will see the militant movement dead and buried, when will thrive natural reform, which cannot pathological militancy has done so much to discredit."

Sir Philip Magnus, member for London University, Lord Robert Cecil and others favor deportation to St. Helena.

MAJOR TO SPEAK AT GOOD ROADS MEETING

Campaign for $3,000,000 Bond Issue to Be Launched at Webster Groves Saturday.

Gov. Major, as principal speaker and guest of honor, will deliver an address on "The State and Good Roads" at a mass meeting, under the auspices of the Business Men's League of Webster Groves, in Bristol Hall, Saturday evening, when officials and 1500 business men of St. Louis County will start a campaign for a $3,000,000 bond issue for the construction of permanent roads in the county.

It is planned to submit the bond issue proposition at the regular election next November, and the appointment of a special committee of seven men in each of the 81 precincts of the county to explain the object of the bond issue to voters will be urged at the meeting, which will be in charge of a committee composed of Theodore Apple, chairman; Henry Schultz, S. H. Wallace and H. H. Allen.

Mayor Kiel and Street Commissioner Talbert of St. Louis, Highway Engineer William Ebling, County Judges Wiethaupt, Buermann and Wilmas, and the Mayors of 10 incorporated towns of the county, are among those especially invited to attend the meeting.

TOKIO, March 20.—Frank Alvord Perret, the American volcanologist, was slightly burned on the hands and legs today by an explosion of molten lava, while studying the volcano of Sakura-Jima.

Perret represents the Volcanic Research Society of Springfield, Mass., and is honorary assistant in the Royal Observatory on Mount Vesuvius. He came here from Italy to study Sakura-Jima, whose recent eruption caused great loss of life and property. His expedition was subsidized by the Volcanological Institute at Naples.

"THE LOVE STAR" SHINES BRIGHT AS A STUDENT EFFORT

Clever Dancing and Tuneful Song Hits Win Applause of Odeon Audience.

"The Love Star," a tuneful musical comedy of Spanish setting, was given by the members of the Washington University Quadrangle Club at the Odeon Thursday night before a brilliant assemblage of society folk.

The play, built around the old Spanish legend that if a young woman and a young man meet for the first time at the rising of the love star, they are fated to fall in love, takes place in the castle of Albayzin, the home of Fernando, Duke of Serrania, a small province in Spain.

The people, in gala attire, congregated at the castle to celebrate its appearance. Don Garcia, who displays all the necessary bravado of a Spanish gallant, tries to supplant Fernando on the throne and marry Zayda, his charming daughter. An American attaches discovers Garcia's designs and repulses the plotting "Don," winning the princess.

Dancing of High Order.
 Miss Santa Reter, who played the premiere danseuse of Serrania, whirled through the Danse du Albayzin with all the impetuosity and grace characteristic of a Spanish maiden. Wyatt Brodix as the dauntless American wooed the princess, Miss Marie Gallenkamp, with fervor. Miss Gallenkamp sang the "Lullaby" with sweetness.

The Moorish tango, danced by Brodix and Miss Mary Robertson, was a success. The rising of the "Love Star" was signalled by a dance by Miss Reter and seven "ponies," who after flitting to and fro, disappeared as quietly as they had come.

The "Devilish Dervish Dance" was the hit of the evening. Four dervishes and eight veiled dancers as Moorish women whirled dizzily to the shrill piccolo and the thud of the kettle drum.

Applause for Miss Capen.
 Miss Adeline Capen and Edward Limberg considered two of the best dancers in society, danced the tango as a specialty and were enthusiastically applauded.

The music of the comedy was composed and arranged by Walter Gustav Haenschel. The lyrics were written by C. Eugene Smith and Ralph Mooney. The orchestra was composed of 25 members of the Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Haenschel.

A large crowd, exceeding the attendance at the Sun-of-O'-Gun, given last year, was present.

INDOOR WORK REDUCES STRENGTH

because confining duties, lack of fresh air and sunshine gradually weaken even a strong constitution, and the enfeebled system readily accepts sickness and disease.

Scott's Emulsion checks such decline. Its pure cod liver oil is nature's grandest medicinal food while its hypophosphites act as a building tonic. It refreshes the body, puts vigor in the blood, strengthens the lungs, upbuilds the nerves and invigorates the whole system.

If you work indoors, Scott's Emulsion after meals will prevent much sickness and loss of time, and often thwarts tuberculosis—it builds up and holds up your strength.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Handy Rope Escapes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It is unfortunate that the word fireproof should be so satisfying in its significance as to cause a person who may be occupying an office, hotel or some public building no immediate anxiety for safety in case of fire. May the writer ask the reader what he could do to save himself, supposing he occupied a room on an upper floor of a fireproof hotel, say, and awoke and found the corridor dark and so full of smoke he could not see, nor breathe, owing to being asphyxiated. Would he have time to grope his way to a fire escape, taking into consideration he knew where one was, which is doubtful?

It does not require fire to cause death; smoke will cause the same end and will prompt a person to leap from a window as well as fire. A fireproof building is termed fireproof as much from a commercial point of view as any other. The saving on insurance in time pays for the building. No building is fireproof against the life of the occupant as long as there may be inflammable or combustible contents.

The writer being a builder and occupying offices in one of our fireproof buildings, being on the eighth floor, I would be no more safe than the unfortunate occupants at the M. A. C. disaster in case of a serious fire gaining headway below the eighth floor. As there is no fire escape, the stairway adjoining the elevator shafts would, as in all cases, form a fine or chimney for the fire and smoke to rise. Who could make seven flights of stairs in dense smoke, to say nothing of fire? I have a rope handy and feel more at ease for the fact than to place any confidence in the word fireproof.

City Tax Rate.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

There has been some talk of raising the tax rate for 1914. If our city fathers cannot run the city within the amount levied for taxes, it is time to cut down expenses, clean out the city hall of its superfluous high-salaried clerks—at least 25 per cent of these can be dispensed with—and then clean up this big police graft, the three platoon system, which in itself is an immense drain on the city treasury; go back to the 12-hour day system and get better results. If these things are done there will be no need of increasing the taxes.

TAXPAYER.

Electrify the Tunnel.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Several hundred passengers daily hauled through the tunnel by steam-propelled trains and escape would be difficult on account of smoke and gas should a wreck or cave-in occur. The railroad should, for the safety of its patrons if nothing else, pull their trains through the tunnel by electricity.

The time to take action is now.

H. A. SCHEFFNER.

Read Ye Jolly Good Fellows!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

These words of Phillips Brooks should be read every day in the year. I hope every jolly, good fellow will agree with him:

There will come to every man times in his life when he sees that there is something which is legitimately his, something which he has a right to, something which nobody can blame him if he takes and enjoys to the fullest, and yet something by whose voluntary and unimpelled surrender he can help his fellow-man, and make the world better. Then will come that man's trial. If he fails, and cannot make the sacrifice, nobody will blame him; he will simply sink into the great multitude of honorable, respectable, self-indulgent people who take the comfortable things which everybody owns they are entitled to, and live their easy life without a question. But if he is of better stuff, and makes the renunciation of comfort for a higher work, then he goes up and stands—humbly, but really—with Jesus Christ. He enters into that other range, that other sort of life, where Jesus Christ lives. He is perfectly satisfied with the higher life. He does not envy, he does not grudge, the self-indulgent lives which he has left behind. He does not count up what he has lost, he does not ask whether he is happier or less happy than he would have been if he had kept what everybody says he had a right to keep. He has a question of happiness with him at all; but gradually, without his seeking it or asking anything about it, he finds that the soul of the happiness which he has left behind is in him still. Like fountains of sweet water in the sea, it rises up and flows into a living soul. He has left the world's pleasure and its privileges only to draw nearer to its necessities, which are its real life. So what he gave he keeps, a thousandfold even in this present time, and eternity is all before him, in the joy and overflowing life.

ALFRED.

SUPERVISION BY PUBLICITY.

Wisdom can be seen in the decision of congressional leaders that Federal supervision of the security issues of railroads shall be approached by degrees. Publicity for railroad finance will be the first step toward it.

Problems press on the Interstate Commerce Commission, which has several times recommended that such supervision should be entrusted to its hands. Much legislation imposing laborious new duties on the board has taken effect within the past five years. The valuation of the railroads' physical property is alone a task of almost unprecedented proportions.

To add just now responsibility for financial operations might threaten the standards of efficiency so far shown by the body. In a few years the railroads will have adjusted their affairs to the new system. Only an occasional exercise of official authority will be needed to remind them that the old days are gone and that they are operating under a policy of public regulation and control. Then supervision of railroad capital as well as of railroad charges and railroad service may be added without serious danger of overburdening the commission.

But in the meantime the virtue of publicity for railroad financial abuses will be thoroughly tested. It may be objected that the transactions of American roads reach such an amazing volume that the remedy will be applied under very unfavorable circumstances. The publicity that is a corrective for evils is a very simple, direct, easily understandable form of publicity. How can mazes of figures in directors' reports convey any idea of the merits of specific propositions?

But the publicity Congress has in mind is publicity in forms to be prescribed by the commission. Plans relating to security flotations must be submitted to the board. It will not have authority to approve or disapprove them, but it will have the power to acquaint the public with the exact quality and purport of what is intended.

Publicity of this sort would have stopped the Brownsville deal and brought the Frisco wreckers to a sudden halt. It would have prevented the worst of the crimes by which the Business laid the New Haven low. If some magnates remain defiant of that new spirit of which Mr. Yoakum speaks, the workings of the publicity cure under commission auspices will prepare the railroads and investors for that full supervision which will come later, if it is seen to be necessary.

GAMBLING IN THE COUNTY.

They have put the lid on peniculi in the county, but penny-ante poker (winner to buy spaghetti for the crowd) is said to be flourishing. So the grand jury is getting after them.

To the county gamblers we suggest: Why not go in for the splendid indoor pastime of fly-awtling, loser to set up the spaghetti? Here is not only an innocent but a really beneficial diversion to which the narrowest of the reformers cannot possibly object.

UNCLE HENRY'S LIFE PAGEANT.

Henry Dorman having died near Lamar, Mo., at the age of 115, science will now come forward to tell how mistrustful it is about his really being that old. Science is always that way about reports of extraordinary age, which it says ought invariably to be reduced by from 10 to 25 per cent. Some anthropologists declare flatly they don't believe that anyone in our time ever lived to exceed even 100 by more than a brief period. They insist that most of those who claim to be centenarians and then some are old frauds—not so very old, either—whose true age is about 85 or 90.

Uncle Henry himself believed he had seen 114 summers and had got as far as March toward the 115th. We believe he had, too. If he exaggerated by fifteen or twenty years, he must have begun exaggerating before he enlisted in the Seventh Michigan in 1863, when he gave his age at 64. An exaggeration of fifteen or twenty years then would have left him under 50. Men of that age don't make themselves out any older than they really are. They are apt to make themselves out younger.

But for a man who never had the benefits of the wonderful Missouri climate until he already was near 70, Uncle Henry did fairly well. How many more summers than 114 might he have seen in his life pageant if he had only come here a few years earlier?

The hundreds of enthusiastic bridge completion volunteers who circulated initiative petitions without pay are among the pleasing signs of St. Louis' earnest purpose to move ahead.

THE NATIONAL BALLOON RACE.

Mr. Albert Bond Lambert, who made St. Louis the center of American aeronautics, has brought this city to the fore once more by "landing" the national balloon event, with the aid of President Noller of the St. Louis Aero Club.

It is worth while to recall that all of the balloon records of the United States have been made from St. Louis; the distance record of 1172 miles by Hawley; altitude record of 24,000 feet by Harmon; and endurance record of 48 hours 26 minutes by Harmon.

Out of 10 balloon races St. Louis has held five, Kansas City three and Indianapolis and Chicago one each. St. Louis is easily recognized as the leader in this form of sport, and the coming national event will strengthen its leadership.

THE Y. M. H. A. BAZAR.

The beneficiary of the Young Men's Hebrew Association bazar in progress at the Coliseum this week is the fund for a Social Center Building, planned to carry rather those common purposes in welfare work for young people which the Y. M. H. A. shares with the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

The work of the organization in St. Louis dates from 1880. Re-established in 1897 with "every well-known Jewish man of the older generation and the flower of our Jewish youth on the roll of membership," it has a record of 17 years' effective effort in character building and physical training. To its aim of surrounding the young with wholesome associations, many earnest men and women have devoted hopeful labors. Thousands of the rising generation have found its educational, musical, social and athletic features a counter attraction for the influences of evil that vitiate principle and impair morals and manners.

Agencies of permanence and efficiency for conserving character in those not yet arrived at the years of maturity and sound judgment cannot be too numerous in any large city. The Y. M. H. A. is entitled to the same generous recognition accorded by the public to other philanthropic organizations in this promising subdivision of the welfare field.

One of the notable successes of its kind in that period was the Y. M. H. A. fair and carnival held 15 years ago. Many St. Louisans will find in this week's bazar, which ends March 21, their most convenient method of contributing to the continuance of a work that has shown itself so worthy of being continued.

The size of Mr. Jerome's bill against the State shows that Harry Thaw isn't anything so modest as a meal ticket. He is a veritable melon-cutting.

WHO WAS CAHOKIA?

A critic of the Peageant protests against the use of the name Cahokia for the leader of the Mound Builders, on the theory that, as the Mound Builders were an extinct prehistoric race, Cahokia, the tribe of Indians discovered in Illinois in the eighteenth century, cannot be representative of these Mound Builders. He charges the Peageant authors with inaccuracy and the use of an anachronism in bringing Cahokia into the Mound Builder's group.

In the early period of investigation of the mysterious mounds scattered through the Mississippi and Ohio valleys, it was held that the Mound Builders were a distinct race from the men whom we call North American Indians. This theory is now held to be incorrect. The modern red men, of whom the Cahokians were one tribe, are held by the best American archeologists to be the direct descendants of the prehistoric Mound Builders.

This being the case, what character is better fitted to represent that race which built the mounds than a chief of a tribe who were the children of the Mound Builders? There may or may not have been an actual individual named Cahokia. But, for the purposes of this Peageant, he has been created as the personification not only of his tribe and of their ancestors, the Mound Builders, but of the idea of Progress which the artists had in mind. The name itself is accurate and representative. And no one but Cahokia could make the picture complete.

The bandits who tied the express messenger in a sack and stole $14,000, near Beaumont, Tex., must be the last of the express robbers. If the companies are to be believed, their business will soon be so poor as not to be worth robbing. Parcel post business will be tempting, but trifling with Uncle Sam is perilous.

PROMISING BAROMETER READINGS.

After showing a decline every month for 12 unbroken months, reports on the unfilled orders of the Steel Trust have turned the other way. For two months an increase has been shown. Unfilled orders on the last of February exceeded by 412,000 tons those on the last of January. There is work enough ahead to keep the steel plants busy for nearly six months.

This is further evidence that the minimum in business activity was reached some time ago. Increase to a gratifying maximum has already begun. The barometer readings indicate fair weather for farmers and business men.

Public opinion came down on the bridge obstructionists with so much more than the sweep of Cucaracha slide that it is hopeless to try to dig them out.

NEW YORK'S EMPLOYMENT EXPERIMENT.

Dispatches have been printed in St. Louis papers to the effect that some of the unemployed who were taken out to the farm at State expense, under Gov. Glynn's plan for a labor clearing house, had refused to work except at city wages and with city hours.

But the report in Wednesday's New York World shows that the Governor's experiment has been highly successful. Seventy-five persons were taken out to Fonda, N. Y., on a back-to-the-soil excursion. On the day of arrival 30 of these were snapped up by the farmers before nightfall. Of course, the more rugged and those who had farming experience were most in demand. And it is not surprising that men with soft, white hands, who had been tailors or engaged in other sedentary occupations, found little favor with the employing farmers.

It is a step in the right direction. As a first attempt, it was, of course, subject to error and miscalculation. You can't fit square pegs into round holes. But all the big cities and states, including St. Louis and Missouri, would do well to organize similar labor clearing houses, with the object of bringing together those who need work and those who need workers.

A disquieting community of interests between armor plate magnates and navy heads was shown by former Admiral Bowles' own testimony.

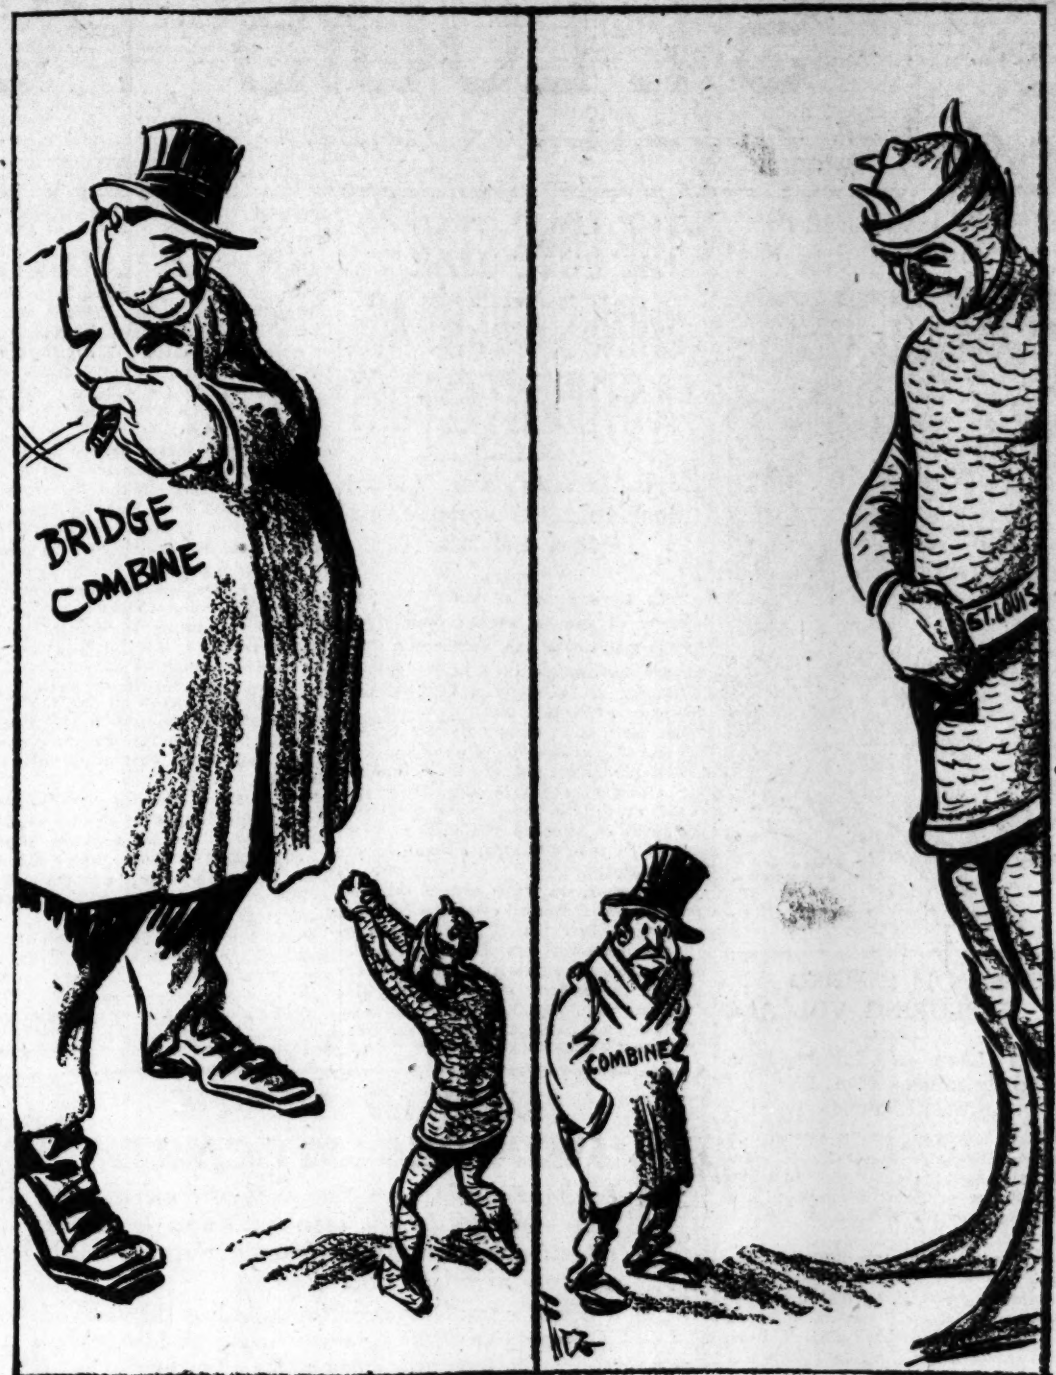

VOTING BY PARCEL POST.

The old idea of voting by mail, revived by Secretary Bryan in addressing the Maryland Legislature, is not particularly promising. As he would grant the privilege only to those unable because of absence or other important reasons to appear at the polls, his plan would give a dual system of depositing the bulky modern ballot in person or sending it by parcel post.

That a "postoffice vote" would effect any material decrease in the dimensions of the absentee vote is not to be assumed. Americans are proverbially the worst of correspondents. There is no reason for supposing that they would be any more ready to communicate in writing with the precinct election inspectors than they are to communicate with distant friends and relatives. The vox populi will be neither a very trustworthy nor a very emphatic expression when voters can perfunctorily intrust the marking of their ballots to their stenographers.

Besides, there is the increased possibility for fraud. Advocates of the plan would probably reply that the finger-print method could easily guarantee the identity and qualifications of the voter who sends his ballot by mail. But the election system that will require full Bertillon records to insure its legality will be a very cumbersome and unsatisfactory system, indeed.

Gen. Villa plans a Sunday dinner in Torreon. Gen. Buller and Gen. Kuropatkin planned dinners they have not yet eaten.

JUST A MINUTE.

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Clark McAdams.

IDEAL SPEECH FOR AN AMERICAN AMBASSADOR.

GENTLEMEN: You will forgive me if I do not follow the custom here and speak for my own country. Ours is a democracy. We are not quite agreed among ourselves what our policies are, and if I undertook to define any of them I would be recalled. It must be understood that in a democracy like ours each of us entertains his own ideas as to what we mean by the Monroe Doctrine or whatever else pertains to our foreign relations.

The probability that any two of us agree is not very great. Take the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. Some of us say it means one thing, and others think it means exactly the opposite. We never try to ascertain what we do think unless it becomes absolutely necessary, and the usual result is to discover that we don't know what to think. We are very intolerant of one another's ideas and are not much on concessions. Therefore, we do not, as a nation, define things too specifically, but rather encourage a vague state of public opinion in which it is possible for each of us to imagine that everyone else thinks exactly as he does.

If you should ask me why we built the Panama Canal, I would say I don't know. Like many other things with respect to which it is not necessary for us to reduce our varying shades of belief to a common conviction, the question is open, and I doubt if we shall ever attempt to say why we built it. Nor shall I attempt to say what our Mexican policy is. One way is enough.

I may explain that the processes of thought in our country are such that we are not continued beyond the exigencies of politics and the bare necessity of getting things done. All we require is an approximate similarity of belief upon the part of a majority. Given that, we revise the tariff, dig canals, maintain a competent navy and keep abreast, in a way, of the more civilized nations. If the reporters present have made anything tangible of what I have said, I shall be glad to explain it away. I thank you and hope to hear from some of the other guests, who are, perhaps, more advantageously situated.

INVITATION.

Come out into the garden, Maude. And let us talk of bees, Of hollyhocks and curlew docks, And other vernal feast. It's early in the season, Maude, And these are yet our dreams. But garden beds and cabbage heads Are mighty pleasant themes. No doubt the vegetable man Shall sell us our supply, But we can think to laugh at him While he is passing by. It is a pleasant fiction, Maude, And gets us in the air, No matter though the promise blow And we are in despair.

The assumption that the colored woman in the South would be permitted to vote is another of those transparent sophistries with which the men at Washington amuse themselves while they may.

The Emperor's Ordeal.

From the Boston Globe. Japan is going to spend fully a week crowning the Emperor Yoshihito in the sacred ancestral halls and so many festivities outside, probably when it is all over the Emperor won't know or care whether his crown is on straight or not, particularly as on the last day he will have to listen to reading by the authors of 300 prize poems to his honor, selected from 30,000 subjects written by his loyal subjects.

BASEBALL IN ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis is to have three major league baseball teams this year. Having found ourselves unable to do anything with the pennant in either of the old leagues, we have been active in the organization of a third league, in which we hope to do better. The reasons why we were not able to do anything in the old leagues, which we consider to have been psychological, are thought to have been obviated in the new league. If this is so, an old rival in St. Louis this year. This is the cheer. It has been years since this form of exaltation has been employed here. The crowd may be said to have been entirely supplanted. It is doubtful if the crowd had ever been developed to such cavernous and heartrending depths as it has reached in St. Louis. We shall be glad to exchange the guttural for the ecstatic note. We have no ambition to become a big-cheated people. We would much rather be big-headed, as they are in New York and Chicago.

QUERY.

How long until We fill the want Of some good word For debutants? Gen. Victoriano Huerta, our candidate for ex-President of Mexico, is said to have asked a conference with 'Shi' Lind. 'Shi' is expected to report some good news soon.

MEAS.—Rust stain: Appl. cream of tartar and lay in sun. (For artist supply stores) cleans brass. E. H. E.—White serge may be cleaned with chloroform or cedar. INQUIRY.—Ink on white silk. Apply a paste of salt and lemon juice; lay it in sun and wet heavily with lemon juice.

F. W. H.—To clean leather: Wash with soap and water, then all over and evenly with peroxide of hydrogen and lay in hottest sun you can find. Turn over the minutes to expose all parts of hat to sunshine. If hat is not quite bleached by first application, repeat.

DATES.

SUR.—Ap. 12, 1837, Wednesday. READER.—No frost in April, 1911. BATTERY.—Mar. 10, 1904, Adar 12. RHONSEN.—In 1830 St. Louis' population was 40,000. There had been 23,340 people of German birth. Earliest German immigration to United States began in 1683, continuing until 1775. Immigration began again in 1830. Immigrant numbers the people of St. Louis trace the blood back to the earliest German immigration to the United States.

HEALTH HINTS.

SPINE.—Two troubles are frequent, ly associated with curvature of the spine, both coming from the same cause—tuberculosis. Either by throwing the body out of plumb may cause the other. A. L. D.—It is sometimes a serious matter to cure flatula; an operation of some nature is required as it is a Caustic Liquid like carbolic acid. Injected into the fistulous canal, with cure in some cases, but it is a painful operation and apt to be painful, and not always beneficial.

ENTHUSIAST.—A medical writer says: Floating spots in the eyes indicate impure blood and deficient nutrition of the jelly-like substance in the center of the eyes, and without improved nutrition there can be no relief either of the eye defects or from the poor circulation and weakness.

LAW POINTS.

P. S.—Illinois collects saloon bill. POOLS.—We don't know New York law. E. J. K.—See Answers Mar. 6, at this office.

READER.—Keeping any wild bird is unlawful in Missouri. SHOPPER.—No licenses are issued to professional shoppers.

A. S.—Physician may collect his bill at any time within 5 years. C. S. L.—A cannot force B (his partner) to sell out to him, nor set an amount at which either should buy out the other.

V. J. T.—Consult an attorney, who after hearing all facts of the case, may be able to hatch a scheme that will work to your interest.

P. P.—Divorced man may see his wife and children unless forbidden by court. (No writing, except address, allowed with parcel post.)

MECHANIC.—We know of no law you would violate in substituting your name in lieu of that of the maker on the goods you purchased.

BOB.—Should minor realist suit, from acts you relate you would be successful in getting judgment against him for the loan. His parents would not be liable for such a debt.

WIFE.—We advise you to be cautious in the matter of paying off the mortgage in question upon estate of your deceased husband who died intestate. Mortgages are not facts. Facts are lacking. Consult an attorney before you do anything.

C. J.—As to tax collector's collector at county seat. As to the debt, you must first be sued and judgment obtained before the farm can be taxed and your interest sold. Before going too far make sure property has not been sold for taxes after so many years' delinquency.

R. S. P.—All that is necessary to disinherit your deceased son's children is to mention them in some way in your will. You can make a dollar if you wish, but that is not required by law; just mention them in some way to make it take effect in mind when you made your will.

A. B. C.—A child may be adopted by your dead father's will, but you give you no control should parents sue to obtain possession. The signature of parents is required. If the child is dead, in the case of orphan, Probate Court could adopt. If living, you may be joining in deed of adoption with husband, can, with her husband, be capable of adopting a child. Costs are not very high and depend upon circumstances of the case.

JUSTICE.—Your offer to sell your property to district judge as the value he has set is not for you to recede but to appeal to the Board of Equalization, which body meets on the 16th of this month at Assessor's office, and will remain in session for about a week before appearing before the Board. It is up to you to convince the board that valuation is too high, when no doubt justice will be done; but there is no telling what stand it may take.

SIS.—Only the man that signed the note is responsible for its payment and may be sued by the holder, or holder can wait to just before it becomes outlawed by statute of limitation. The proper way is to sue when due and put it in judgment form. Willing to sign the note to make it valid. Notes are outlawed 10 years after maturity; not 10 years from date of note, and unless sued upon before expiration of such period, the holder is released of the obligation to pay.

The Jarr Family

By ROY L. MCCARDELL

THE door bell rang with a merry peal, a patter of hurrying feet came up the stairs, and had it been a few years ago, a rustle of female skirts would have been heard. We're trying to tell you it's Irene Cackleberry just back from Peoria, hastening up to the Jarr domicile to find out if Capt. Tynnefoyle, her fiancé, has thought better of it and escaped. But as a word painter we are all to the cubist, and hence the explanation.

"My Herbert! How is my dear Herbert?" cried the fair young creature, kissing Mrs. Jarr to the right and left. "He is here, be calm, my dear child," said Mrs. Jarr. "He would have met you at the station, but Mr. Jarr thought it wasn't safe to let him loose. I don't know what Mr. Jarr meant by it. So thought it best to telephone Capt. Tynnefoyle to come up to the house. You might have lost him in the crowd at the depot."

"Ah, here comes papa!" remarked Miss Cackleberry, as she paused to respond to her nose. "He came over with me, but stopped at a place on the corner to see what time it was. He wants to meet Herbert."

Mr. Barnard Blodger had arrived by this time, chewing a clove.

"Where is he?" demanded Mr. Blodger. "Where is this Col. Tynnefoyle, who would steal our birds from the home nest?"

"Tynnefoyle, papa, Capt. Tynnefoyle," corrected the birdie, as the militia man came timidly forward.

"Are you a Snake?" inquired Mr. Blodger.

"Oh, dear no, I should hope not!" said Capt. Tynnefoyle, nervously toying with his wrist watch. But it was a rough military wrist watch on a leather band with a brass buckle.

"Then 'tis time you wear!" said Mr. Blodger solemnly. "You should Hiss and Rattle, sir, you should Hiss and Rattle!"

"Papa is a great fraternity man," explained Miss Cackleberry coyly. "He is head of—"

"I am Kingsnake of the Society of Sagacious and Splendid Snakes, or the Married Men's Protective Association of America," explained Mr. Blodger. "No Squaw Rule and the Suppression of the Tyrant Wife!"

Capt. Tynnefoyle didn't quite understand that Squaw Rule impended in his case, and that he would soon be under the domination of the Tyrant Wife, but he stammered and asked Mr. Blodger if he were interested in military matters.

"Papa, my great big papa, wanted to see what sort of man you were, my dear," said Miss Cackleberry.

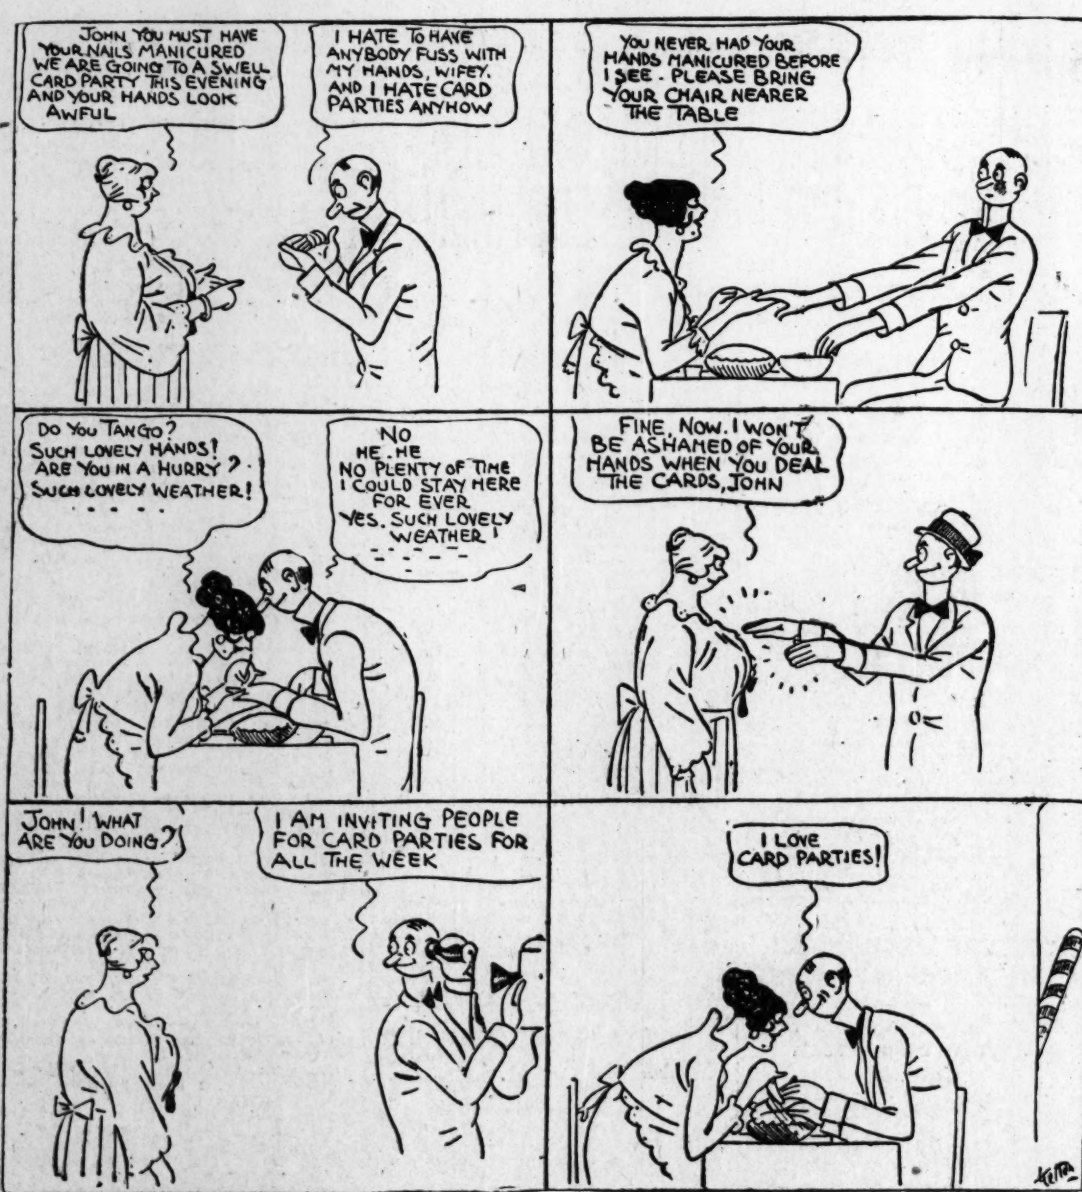

"I am a Snake!" murmured Mr. Blodger. "But I have a heart. How dare you, sir, how dare you!"

He spoke in such a ferocious tone Mrs. Jarr thought it a very tender and touching scene.

"Leave them together, dearie," she said to Miss Cackleberry. "Those two strong men can best settle this between them."

"Do not be harsh with Herbert, papa," cried Mrs. Cackleberry, as she tottered out. And she added in a whisper in Mrs. Jarr's ear, "Barnard Blodger is so anxious to get me away from home that he'll make Herbert Tynnefoyle understand he cannot trifle with my affections."

"There is only one thing for you to do, sir," said Mr. Blodger, when the door closed on the two ladies. "You must become a Snake, you must enroll as a writhing brother and Hiss and Rattle! Have you got?"

Capt. Tynnefoyle had $10 and handed it over.

"It is well," said Mr. Blodger. "You are now a Snake, or you will be when you are married. I leave you, sir, with my compliments." And he hurried away.

Obsolete.

"You say you used to have a profession, my good man?"

"Oh, yes, lady. I used to manufacture petticoats."

Saving the Property.

THAT reminds me," smilingly remarked Congressman Henderson M. Jacobow of Arkansas at a recent smokefest when the talk topic switched to railroad incidents.

"Some time ago a rather young person of the Algonquin type, who was traveling on one of the through trains, insisted on raising the car window and shoving his head far out into the flying scenery. Time and time again the conductor warned him of his danger, but the cautioning words availed nothing.

Finally, after the train had gone some 20 miles further, the conductor again returned and gave his attention to Algonquin.

"Pardon me," he politely remarked, touching the youth on the shoulder, "but this time I am compelled to insist that you keep your head within the car."

"Is that so?" was the grateful rejoinder of Algy. "May I ask why?"

"Certainly," came the cold, hard blow of the conductor. "We are coming to a bridge and I don't want the girders damaged."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

To Soak.

MRS. BROWNING had a new domestic named Agnes.

"Agnes," said the mistress, "did you put the clothes in soak?"

"Oh did not," answered the girl; "did you want me to mumm?"

"Why, certainly," was the reply.

"Very well," said Agnes.

About two hours later Agnes presented herself to her mistress.

"Oh have put thim clothes in soak, mumm," she said, "but the pawnbroker put give me only chew dollars on the whole outfit. Here be th' money, an' it's sorry I am that ye be so harrud up."—Harper's Magazine.

Pa's Diary

By Hazen Conklin.

NOTHING of any importance happened today except Jorkins. Things was smooth down to the office and Ma and Clarice have gone to see "The Smirch," which is some kind of a theater show that lives up to its name, according to what the newspapers say about it. So Jorkins and me was left to get better known to each other.

If Ma knew it she'd most likely have a fit and fire him, but Jorkins ain't his name and he ain't English. His name's Bill Schultz, and he hails from Milwaukee, Wis. His pa is a cooper in a brewery out there. His name's Otto. And his ma's name is Katrina, and he's got two sisters, one of 'em married to a grocer by the name of Schwartz. He ain't said so, but I sort of suspicion he's a German.

I've always boasted that, if it was a matter of business, I could get on the blind side of any man quicker'n old Miss Pringle's cat could scoot up a tree. I've proved it by makin' a human bein' out of Jorkins inside of five minutes.

I walked through gettin' ready for breakfast in spite of Jorkins' buttin' in and listened to him say "Very good, sir," 19 times by actual count. I got home from the office so late he didn't have much chance at me before dinner. It was after dinner, when Ma and Clarice had gone, that I got his family history.

I been usin' my room as a sort of cyclone cellar when Ma and Clarice was runnin' around downstairs, because I've learned that the only way to keep out of a storm is to stay under cover. I've got a box of 8-cent cigars up here that Ma won't let me smoke downstairs, and a couple of bottles with the right kind of labels on 'em, and I come up after dinner for a smoke.

Jorkins was there, flummymiddlin' around with some of my duds, which he said he was gettin' together to be pressed. I told him to clear out with them and not come back. He said, "Very good, sir," and stuck up his nose. I'd heard all the "Very good sir" that I could stand, and I ripped right out at him in a way that would have tore the dignity out of a walkin' delegate for the soap makers' union.

"Jorkins," I says, windin' up my broadside, "I'm a plain man, and I like plain talkin' without any English frills. And I like nooses down where they belong. Do you get me?"

He got as far as the "very" that was a habit with him, before he remembered and said "Yes, sir."

"That's better," I says. Then I says: "What has Mrs. Dobbs agreed to pay you?"

"Sixty dollars a month, sir," he says. I peeled a twenty off my roll and waved it under his chin. His nose come down then and I see that "not present" look come out of his eyes.

"I'll pay you $20 a month more," I says, "if you'll try to be a human bein' while you're around me and act like you was aware that I'm in the same room with you. You needn't let on to the Missus. This is just between us two. Then you and me will get on fine. Do you get me?"

"You bet!" he says, grabbin' the twenty. "That goes."

I made him chuck the duds on the bed and sit down and have a drink on it. Then I made him light up one of my cigars, but he didn't seem to like it and pretty soon he asked me could he smoke a cigarette. And then he got real chummy and we hadn't been swappin' yarns half an hour before he told me about his folks.

I'm goin' to like Jorkins, after all.
